How to short reference a book

Material on the Web often falls into one of the material types already covered in this guide. Information published on the Web is not necessarily a webpage. In such cases, follow the instructions for the material type in question (e.g. research report, e-book). In-text citation Reference list (Author/Owner Year) Author/Owner of webpage. (Year created or last updated). Title of webpage [online]. Available from: URL [accessed date]. Example (Dundalk Institute of Technology 2022) Dundalk Institute of Technology. (2022). Research support [online]. Available from: [accessed 25 March 2022]. Because everyone is pressed for time, the need to look up the summary of this book or that one is sometimes a priority. Therefore, a wide variety of sites are available containing them. Follow these guidelines to learn where to find book summaries online. Websites and Blogs Many websites and blogs offer summaries of chapters in books for free to their readers. Some present notes, reflections, and reviews that their readers can comment on, discuss, or reflect on. The purpose of these websites and blogs is to present an informal setting for people to enjoy books without feeling the pressure of making a purchase. Some of the bloggers and website owners also provide video and audio summaries, as well. Subscription Services and Book Apps It's possible to find chapter summaries of books available through subscription services, as well as book apps. Some of these services provide audio, PDF, and infographics of the books. If that's not enough, some of these book apps and subscription services also offer links to videos, reports and TED talks for the books, as well. YouTube Channels Offering Book Summaries If you would rather not read a summary of books, there are many YouTube channels offering book summaries online. These "YouTubers" select a book, present information about it, provide insights, highlight reviews about it, and summarize its plot. Some of these channels follow a specific niche topic while others are about books in general. Research or Special Interest Book Summary Websites For those who need a summary of a book that covers a research or special interest topic, there are dozens of book summary websites focusing specifically on this. While you may not find a short summary of Hamlet, you will see religious book summaries, book summaries for health-related topics, or topics for business-related books. Students Searching for Book Summaries Students are constantly on the lookout for book summaries for research purposes, as well as for books they need to read for classes. For example, they may need a summary of Robert's rules or a simple summary of Macbeth to help them write a research paper, and a book summary website will help them achieve that goal. These book summary sites contain information about the author, release date, characters, plot, and then move on to the summaries, like a short summary of Othello, for example. MORE FROM QUESTIONSANSWERED.NET Score: 0% Rank: Correct Answer: There are different versions of the Harvard referencing style. This guide is a quick introduction to the commonly-used Cite Them Right version. You will find further guidance available through the OU Library on the Cite Them Right Database. For help and support with referencing and the full Cite Them Right guide, have a look at the Library's page on referencing and plagiarism. In-text citations and full references Referencing consists of two elements: in-text citations, which are inserted in the body of your text and are included in the word count. An in-text citation gives the author(s) and publication date of a source you are referring to. If the publication date is not given, the phrase 'no date' is used instead of a date. If using direct quotations, you also need the page number, if available, or paragraph number for web pages. Full references, which are given in alphabetical order in reference list at the end of your work and are not included in the word count. Full references give full bibliographical information for all the sources you have referred to in the body of your text. Difference between reference list and bibliography a reference list only includes sources you have referred to in the body of your text a bibliography includes sources you have referred to in the body of your text AND sources that were part of your background reading that you did not use in your assignment. Back to top Examples of in-text citations There are a number of ways of incorporating in-text citations into your work. Examples are provided below: One author Two authors Three authors Four or more authors It has been emphasised that good referencing is an important academic skill (Harris, 2015). OR Harris (2015) emphasised that good referencing is an important academic skill. It has been emphasised that good referencing is an important academic skill (Shah and Papadopoulos, 2015). OR Wong et al. (2015) emphasised that good referencing is an important academic skill. Note: When referencing a chapter of an edited book, your in-text citation should give the author(s) of the chapter. Corporate author When no author, use the title of the resource in italics It has been emphasised that good referencing is an important academic skill (The Open University, 2015). Information from The Open University (2015) emphasises that good referencing is an important academic skill. It has been emphasised that good referencing is an important academic skill (Information Literacy in Higher Education, 2015). Information from Information Literacy in Higher Education (2015) emphasises that good referencing is an important academic skill. Secondary referencing Page numbers Fernandez (2015, quoted in Nabokov, 2017) states that... Use 'quoted in' if directly quoting, and 'cited in' if summarising from a source. The full reference will give only the source you read (in this case: Nabokov, 2017). Harris (2015, p. 5) argues that... Wong et al. (2015, pp. 35-49)... Use page numbers for direct quotations or when you use ideas from specific pages. Back to top Examples of full references Module websites Online module materials When referencing material from module websites, the date of publication is the year you started studying the module. Surname, Initial. (Year of publication/presentation) 'Title of item'. Module code: Module title. Available at: URL of VLE (Accessed: date). OR, if there is no named author: The Open University (Year of publication/presentation) 'Title of item'. Module code: Module title. Available at: URL of VLE (Accessed: date). Examples: Note: if a complete journal article has been uploaded to a module website, or if you have seen an article referred to on the website and then accessed the original version, reference the original journal article, and do not mention the module materials. If only an extract from an article is included in your module materials that you want to reference, you should use secondary referencing, with the module materials as the 'cited in' source, as described above. Back to top Forum messages Surname, Initial. (Year of publication) 'Title of message', Title of discussion board, in Module code: Module title. Available at: URL of VLE (Accessed: date).
